ABOUT THE SEMINAR

India, the world's second most populous country, has made an astonishing economic progress in recent years but on the other hand, yet today it finds itself lagging behind peers on health care outcomes. India's general health-care spending has been far below in compare to developed country. Cancer and stroke, are responsible for maximum death but hypertension and diabetes are two diseases draw attention from the public due to their increasing trends, while cancer and stroke are declining. Mean while, Management of current corona crisis, gave an opportunity to move far ahead in health-care delivery and related outcomes. COVID-19 is both a crisis and an opportunity for health-care reform as well as understanding the interplay of health outcomes with
